A WORD AS TO THE CATTLE TO BE SOLD

---

The thirty-eight Shorthorns that have been selected from the Glenview herd for this sale make one of the most attractive Scotch bred offerings to be sold this season. A number of cows of unusual scale, the types that should make good in the best of herds; an even lot all through; an array of heifers just reaching maturity, that are a uniformly breedy superior lot and the kind which show every promise of making the kind of cows that are in demand now at long prices. These and a number of promising young bulls by the getter of thick-fleshed cattle, Silverdale, make up this offering of exceptional merit throughout.

From the standpoint of Scotch breeding, no stronger or cleaner bred lot of cattle have been, nor will be offered this season. They come from standard families and have come through breeders who have attained distinction as constructive breeders. Most of the prominent sires of the present and past are found in the pedigrees and it is a line of breeding generally accepted as the most desirable known to the breed. The thick-fleshed sons and daughters of Silverdale will please, and the number of daughters of Good Knight, a grandson of the St. Louis World's Fair champion, Choice Goods, are a sort not often listed in such numbers for a sale. The fact that the females in this lot are bred to such bulls as Silverdale, a great breeding son of Avondale, and to Ontario Gloster, a full brother to the great champion, Fair Acres Gloster, adds greatly to their worth. It is an offering from a herd noted for the worth of its productions by a man who is recognized as one of the leading breeders of his time and it is a sale of the breed that those in the market for cattle that are right and bred along the most approved lines cannot afford to overlook.

(Signed) GEO. E. MARTIN, Gazette Representative.

Glenview Shorthorn Sale

WITH original inclination and training to suit, C. J. McMaster, the laird of Glenview Farm, has always offered a high class lot of cattle whenever he has invited the breeders to assemble at a public sale from his herd. It is a matter of personal pride with Mr. McMaster to offer none but cattle that will suit experienced judges. He is one of the men who bar excuses so far as his property is concerned. It is either one thing or another, and he desires that everything he sells be gauged according to its individual merits. In the Shorthorn band which he will submit for public appraisal in his next sale at Glenview Farm, Altona, Ill., June 6, he will offer cows, bulls and heifers which will provoke eager competition among the bidders at the ringside.

Primarily Mr. McMaster is a stickler for burliness, ruggedness and strong constitution in his breeding cattle. His reserve stock females are a bouncing lot—full of flesh and vigor, every one of them a heavy one. At the same time he has always taken pains never to sacrifice type for strength, with the result that breeders desiring to add substance and weight to their herds will find what they need in the Glenview offering. We are not trying to particularize at this writing, merely viewing the offering as a unit.

In the great white bull, Silverdale, the laird of Glenview owns one of the best Shorthorn bulls alive today. He is by the incomparable Avondale, and some good judges have pronounced him the best son of that great sire now doing service. Silverdale is a weighty bull, full of width, length and depth and straight lines. His carriage is majestic, his whole appearance lordly and his weight, in reasonable service condition, exceeds 2,400 pounds. His verity of Shorthorn character is undeniable, and yet with all his massive conformation and depth of flesh, his extended service in the herd, and his age, now just past six years, he is as smooth as he ever was and as mellow to the touch as one often finds a bull calf. In short, Silverdale is one of the highest class Shorthorns alive today, and breeders seeking to strengthen their herds by the purchase of heifers by such a sire, or of cows with calves at side by him and again rebred, will find just what they need in the Glenview Sale.

As chief assistant to this white lord of the harem is Ontario Gloster, full brother to Fair Acres Gloster, grand champion of 1914 and 1915 at several important shows. Ontario Gloster has the breeding, the stretch, the accuracy of modeling and the blood lines to make a strictly first class getter of good stock. This coming season, if his owner puts him in training and brings him out fit and right for the International, any bull in his class that beats him will know he has been to a show. He cost $1,100 at auction and the pronouncement of several veteran breeders at the ringside was that he was the bargain of the sale, at which he found his present ownership.

Breeders may depend on the stock in this sale being right. Mr. McMaster is that sort of a man.—The Shorthorn World, May 10, 1916.

A LITTLE HISTORY

It is less than a dozen years since the first $500 Shorthorn cow was bought for the Glenview herd. She is now 14 years old and will soon deliver her ninth calf for Glenview Farm. Her produce (although nothing sensational) have all been uniformly good. She soon repaid her purchase price, and each succeeding year she has contributed to Glenview, in lieu of care and feed, a return of from sixty to one hundred per cent on the initial investment.

This cow is Lady Douglas 2d, a daughter of the grand old cow imp. Lady Douglas. Hundreds of Shorthorn cows have done as well or better. In many instances one calf has brought a greater return than the entire produce from this cow. We use her as an example of what one good honest business Shorthorn cow will do with a little feed and care. Other cows have since been bought into the herd at higher prices. In almost every instance they have returned the purchase price with their first calf.

What is the real value of this kind of seed? Who can correctly estimate their worth in dollars and cents? I will answer by making the statement that four figures would be required to represent the dollars paid for a number of the best animals selected for the Glenview herd, and I am free to say that I have yet to buy my first honest Shorthorn that was bought too dear. Nothing has been attempted at Glenview that cannot easily be accomplished on the average corn belt farm. Good blood, good individuals and good care are the main factors that spell success.

C. J. McMASTER.

I would advise the beginner, in the case of founding a herd of Shorthorns, to place his eggs in one good, strong basket, and carry them carefully to the market, rather than use several cheap ones from which the bottom is apt to fall. In other words, buy a few good cows and take care of them; buy within your means, but buy merit, though it costs more; endeavor to breed a class of cattle that will command good prices; let the public know that you have them, and you will find plenty of buyers at prices that will be entirely satisfactory. Sow good seed, take care of the growing crop, and the harvest will be profitable.—Rank C. Forbes.

Silver Dale 320003, white; calved October 19, 1908. Bred by Carpenter & Ross, Mansfield, Ohio. The sire's side of this pedigree shows a most formidable array of carefully selected Scotch sires, all of which were of show yard material.

Who can estimate the extent of the improvement that the Shorthorn has brought about in American live stock and agriculture? Who can fail to recognize the enterprise and high character of the men who have been and are associated with the Shorthorn? I am inspired as I think of their names by the score. Who can foresee the breadth of the achievement in the years to come? I am thankful that my lot was cast with the Shorthorn and that grand array of men who have bred them and are today moving forward with the Shorthorn cause.—Col. F. M. Woods.

*Pedigree alone will not suffice nor can we rely on individual merit by itself to give a good account in the breeding herd. Quality with the blood descending from ancestry whose progeny breeds on and on, generation after generation, producing individuals of the most approved type, affords the only reliable assurance possible that like may produce like, and that each succeeding year will find their breeder a little higher on the ladder.—C. It is conceded by those in a position to know, that at no time in the history of the Shorthorn in America has the business been on as satisfactory and firm a basis as exists at the present time. The demand for the productions of Shorthorn herds is strong, steady and comes from a wide range of territory. It comes from sections of the country that heretofore has manifested little, if any, interest in the breed or in any type of improved stocks of the bovine species. The South, the East and the West have awakened to the call for better breeding stock, and the demand from these sources, particularly the southern and eastern states, has had no parallel in the history of the breed in this country.—George E. Martin.

Silver Dale 320003, white; calved October 19, 1908. Bred by Carpenter & Ross, Mansfield, Ohio; got by the grand old Maxwalton sire and show bull, Avondale 245144, whose grand championship winnings are familiar to Shorthorn breeders throughout the continent, he by Mr. Kelley's famous imp. White Hall Sultan, whose show records stand four square in the Shorthorn world. Silver Dale has for dam, imp. Rosewood 86th, a grand specimen of the renowned Bruce Rosewood tribe, by Mr. Duthie's Miss Ramsden prize winner, Pride of Day (79597). The sire's side of this pedigree shows a most formidable array of carefully selected Scotch sires, all of which were of show yard material.

The Sittyton Victorias imported to America have proved among the most valuable Scotch bred Shorthorns that ever crossed the Atlantic. The first to come out was the Roan Victoria 51st by Royal Duke of Gloster (29864); imported by Mr. Davis Lowman of Toulon, Illinois, in 1876. From this cow some of the best Cruickshank cattle ever seen in western show yards and breeding herds have descended.

Shorthorns came to America in 1783—six years after the Declaration of Independence. Gough & Miller imported Shorthorns, though not under that name, into Virginia in 1783 and again in 1792. It was in 1817, three years after the Battle of Waterloo, that the first pedigreed bulls, Marquis (408) and Moscow (9413) were imported into the Genesee Valley in New York by S. M. Hopkins. The work of bringing over the best of Britain's cattle has been kept up all these years and still in this year of 1916 not even this country has enough to supply the rapidly growing needs of our people.

There is no breed that outgrazes the red, white and roan. They will turn a greater number of dollars for the individual steer than any other breed of cattle on the range. They are good feeders and the large milk yield of the dam always sends the offspring off with a strong, vigorous constitution and growth that gives it the best start in life. The milk of the Shorthorn cow is a great factor and feature that has made good cattle of all other breeds when crossed with the Shorthorn.—E. H. Grubb, in Shorthorn World.

Whatever the merits of his competitors — and they are many and great—it should never be forgotten that the Shorthorn was the pioneer improver in America to better the color of the common, the nondescript cattle of the tribe of Old Brindle, Sukey and Speck; to broaden their back greatly, increase their size, decrease their proportion of offal and least valuable parts, shorten their horns and legs and head them toward a uniformity of excellence.
